The alarm goes off, hit the snooze button a couple of times, finally get out of bed into the closet, find clothes to wear, fix breakfast (to eat on the run) and lunch to go, grab my stuff, out the door and unto my vehicle. Off I go for another fun day.

Does this sound familiar? For those of you who are retired it isn't that much of a race but can you think of anything I missed? Whether you are in four wheels or on two, I left out something very important – a T-Clock inspection. Is my windshield washer level full? Is my oil at the proper level? How is my transmission fluid? What does my gas gauge look like (it better not be below half a tank – for me it might as well say empty)? How are my tires? What is the air pressure? (Do you carry one? I bought a talking one!) When was the last time I had them rotated? Are my windows clean (the dogs like to leave their nose prints on them)? Did I put my umbrella in the backseat after I used it last?

There are a hundred and one things (so I exaggerate a bit) we need to check before we leave.

I make it a priority to check stuff out once a week. However, if I forget, the truck reminds me when the oil needs changed (a job for Steve), or when the windshield washer fluid is low, etc. It is a must to keep up with what is going on with the machines we drive/ride. Our vehicles will last longer and be more reliable. It is not fun to break down on the way to eat or even worse on the way to get ice cream!

I know we have heard this all before, but it is well worth repeating. Make it a habit to check your equipment regularly. It can save a lot of expense and aggravation. Ride/Drive safe!

Springtime is a magical season that brings a sense of renewal and adventure. As winter fades away, the world awakens with vibrant colors, fragrant blossoms, and a gentle warmth that beckons us outdoors. For motorcycle enthusiasts like myself, this season transforms the landscape into a playground, offering the perfect backdrop for exhilarating rides.

Riding my motorcycle during spring is an experience like no other. The air is crisp, filled with the scent of blooming flowers and fresh grass. As I gear up, the excitement is palpable; the very act of throwing my leg over the bike and feeling the engine rumble beneath me ignites a thrill that is hard to match. There is something liberating about the open road, the wind whipping through my hair, and the feeling of freedom that comes with each twist of the throttle.

The routes I choose during springtime are often filled with breathtaking scenery. I love to travel through winding country roads that are lined with blossoming trees, their petals dancing in the breeze. The vibrant greens of the grass and the colorful flowers create a picturesque landscape that feels alive. Each corner I navigate reveals new sights and sounds—the chirping of birds, the rustle of leaves, and the distant sound of a babbling brook. These experiences are enhanced by the thrill of riding; every twist and turn becomes an adventure.

One of the joys of spring riding is the camaraderie among fellow motorcyclists. As the weather warms up, more riders hit the roads, and it's not uncommon to exchange friendly waves with passing bikers. There's an unspoken bond among us, a shared appreciation for the freedom and joy that comes from riding. Group rides become frequent, as friends gather to explore new routes, share stories, and create unforgettable memories. The sense of community is strong, and it's heartwarming to know that so many others share the same passion.

Spring also presents opportunities for spontaneous adventures. With the days getting longer and the sun setting later, I find myself drawn to weekend getaways. A quick trip to the mountains or a ride along the coast becomes a reality as the weather becomes more predictable. Packing a small bag and hitting the road with no specific destination in mind is one of the greatest pleasures of spring riding. Each journey is an opportunity to discover hidden gems—quaint little towns, stunning viewpoints, and the thrill of the unknown.

However, springtime riding isn't without its challenges. With the change in season, road conditions can vary. Potholes, gravel, and unpredictable weather can pose risks, so it's essential to ride cautiously and remain aware of my surroundings. The thrill of the ride is balanced by the need for vigilance, making it even more rewarding when I navigate through tricky situations safely.

As spring unfolds, I find myself falling in love with riding all over again. The combination of beautiful landscapes, the joy of adventure, and the camaraderie of fellow bikers makes this season truly special. Each ride becomes a celebration of life, freedom, and the thrill of the open road. As I cruise through this vibrant season, I am reminded of the simple pleasures that come with riding my motorcycle—an experience that fills my heart with joy and my spirit with adventure.
